

PUBLIC WORKSHOPS

All the things you want for yourself, your children and your students, and all the things teens and pre-teens want for themselves, can begin immediately when they learn HOW to learn.

Kimberly Kassner, featured on national television shows for her dramatic results with troubled and underachieving teens, has successfully taught thousands of students and teachers how to improve their performance. She doesn't just tell them they can do it; she PROVES it to them on the spot. Her workshops are energetic, engaging and interactive.

This Two Day Public Workshop Includes:

- Creating associations to make learning easy
- Memory techniques through visualization and association
- Understanding the right/left brain & how to convert information into either learning process
- Learning to memorize verbatim through rhythm, multiple senses and picturing
- Effective note taking without trying to write down every word
- Reading text books and retaining the information in half the time
- How to make test-taking a predictable success/Increasing SAT and ACT test scores
- Getting into the zone in learning, a place where you are mentally and emotionally at peace
